STOUT PALMER AND BUCKNER HERE FOR THE MEETING TO-NIGHT.

One Is 79 and the Other 78, and They Ara Tough as Oak, Active so Boys, and Can't Be Fooled by Quack Democracy-Bryan Can't Have Kentucky, Says Buckner,

Everything is ready for the demonstration in Madison Square Garden to-night in honor of the candidates of the Indianapolis sound-money national Democratic Convention, Gen. John McAuley Palmer, the candidate for President. arrived at the Fifth Avenue Hotel yesterday afternoon, accompanied by Mrs. Palmer and his son Louis. The Palmers had come straight from their home in Springfield, Ill. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, the candidate for Vice-President, arrived at the same hotel shortly before the Palmers. Gen. Buckner was accompanied by Henry Watkins, Graham Vreeland, and Morris H. Relknap. The party left Louisville on Sunday morning. Gen. Buckner was accompanied to New York by Col. John R. Fellows who has been making sound-money speeches in Kentucky and Tennessee, Gen. Palmer, the candidate for President, had only a few words to ear for publication.

I cannot," he said, "speak of the situation in Illinois with any degree of accuracy, because while the horses are ready to trot the riders are not yet up. I have no plans. I have had a talk with John De Witt Warner, and when William D. Bynum arrives in New York to-morrow morning I am to have further talks. I am ready to go where the National Committee recuests me to go. I would like to go to Alabama and make speeches there, for the reason that there are some very game Democrats down in that State whom I would like to help. There has been some suggestion that I attend the Convention in Brooklyn on Thursday of the soundmoney Democrats of the State of New York. This and other matters will be determined tomorrow. There would be little use in my attempting to make a prediction as to the outcome of this battle. I do not believe in predictions. I believe in work, and hard work at that, and I am ready to go wherever the committee sends me. I will try to interest the audience at Madison Square Garden to-morrow night. I am in this fight for the sound-money principles of the Democratic party, and I am ready and carer to work hard for that cause." Senator Palmer moved as actively as a youth of twenty. His cheeks were ruddy with health, and he said he had looked forward to his visit to New York with a great deal of pleasure, because, among other features of interest to him. he expected to meet a great many of his old army friends. Senator Palmer was never in better health, and his seventy-nine years of vim made him yesterday one of the most interesting citizens at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. Gen. Buckner carried his seventy-three years like a schoolboy. His corncob pipe scarcely left his lips as he said that he was glad to be in New York and meet old friends.

"Do you know," he continued, " who was the first man who called on me here at the hotel? No? Well, he was Joseph Meyer, and he was No? Well, he was Joseph Meyer, and he was one of my guards when Secretary Stanton sent me to Fort Warren. I was sentenced to five menths' solitary confinement; but Meyer was a mighty good fellow. Do you know, I used to write poetry in those days of close confinement, and every night I used to read it to Meyer. He listened very patiently and I used to say to him: 'Do you know that you are a mighty good solder, because if you were not you would certainly desert before you would remain here and hear me read my poetry to you.' Well, I was very giad to see Mr. Meyer. Of course you know I am going to make a speech in the Madison Square Garden to morrow night. I saw in the hands of the National Committee, and, according to the present programme, I am to leave the meeting and proceed immediately to Richmond. After that I may go to Baltimore. I am following out my convictions in this fight and doing what I consider to be my duty, and that duty is to demand good government, which in my estimation can only be attained and maintained with a sound currency. I have spoken in Tennessee, where there were a number of fine meetings. It is true that there were some interruptions at the meetings from men who did not care to listen to reason. As a rule, however, the majority wanted to hear the argument for sound money. I do not believe that there is a reasonable chance of Mr. Bryan's apeeches one of my guards when Secretary Stanton sent I know from the reports that have come to me that he has hurt himself in Kentucky. The objections of Kentuckians to Mr. Bryan's speeches are that he advocates most radical doctrines, which some have interpreted to mean insurrection and internecine strife. We have had enough of that business down our way. I repeat that there is no reasonable chance that Bryan is to carry Kentucky."

Col. Fellows said good-by to Gen. Palmer and Gen. Buckner at the hotel, He is to greet them again at the Madison Square meeting tonight.

"Hoth Tennessee and Kentucky," said Col.
Fellows," will go against Bryan."

Chairman Bynum of the Sound-money National Committee will arrive from Indianapolis this morning. He will be requested to open the meeting in Madison Square Garden to-night.

Mr. Bynum forwarded for distribution at the sound-money headquarters, 39 East Twenty-third street, the following address:

APPEAL OF THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE.

To the Immorats of the United States:

This committee is conducting, in behalf of the Democratic standard bearers. Gen. John M. Paimer of Hilinois and Gen. Simon B. Buckner of Kentucky, a campaign to save the American republic from the critical danger which immediately threatens it and to preserve for the future an organized representation of the principles and policy of the Democratic party.

In the result of this election are involved not only the industrial and business prosperity of the country, including the vital and direct interests of wage earners and capital alike, but also the first elements of law, order, and national honor, and even the very foundations of our American civilization.

No less clear is it that upon the National Democracy is now devolved, and solely, the support before the American people of the noble and beneficent doctrines and traditions of our great historical party. The fundamental object and duty of the party were, in its first declaration of principles and in the inaugural address of Jefferson, its ilinistrious founder, stated to be the inviolable preservation of the Constitution. Through its eventful and honorable career it has sought to preserve the autonomy of the Siates and the liberty of the citizen, and, as an APPEAL OF THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE.

Through its eventful and honorable career it has sought to preserve the autonomy of the States and the liberty of the citizen, and, as an essential element of that liberty, to make secure the earnings of his thrift and economy.

In gross betrayal of the Democracy the Chicago Convention proclaimed the gospel of hate between sections of the country, between labor and capital, between employer and workmen. It demanded a debasement of our currency, which means the dishonor of the nation, the repudiation of private contracts, and the reduc-It demanded a debasement of our currency, which means the dishonor of the nation, the repudiation of private contracts, and the reduction of the pay of the laborer to one-half his present wage. It asserted in effect the right to pack courts of justice for the purpose of revering the decisions which do not meet with popula favor. It denied the right of the Federal authority to protect the mails and inter-State commerce upon which depend the very existence of our great industrial centres and the markets of our farmers: it denied this right even after peace was broken, blood shed, and property castroyed. To all true Democratis these assertions are atterly abhorrent. The National Democracy will do its utmost to defeat this platform and the candidates nowlinated upon it.

The Democratic party did not perish with the triumph of repudiation and sharchy at the Chicago Convention. Its desertion by many who should there have guarded it has made our day topperative. If the result in November should be the election of a Republican President, all the more ought a powerful and genuine Democratic oreanization to stand active and conspicuous before the country. Such an organization would be of vital consequence to affer repetious before the country. Such an organition would be of vital consequence to safe derai amministration, to the sound politics of country, and to its accurity against an extend of the country and to be successful reaction in 1900 excesses like those threatened by Bryan and wall.

"I am very glad to have an opportunity to contribute my influence to the furthering of a cause, in my humble opinion, of greater moment than any that has arisen since the achievement of our independence. In 1861 the question was whether our country should be divided into two Governments, but now, to me it seems that the total disintegration of all our industries is threatened."

threatened."

The demands for tickets to the Madison Square Garden meeting have been very great.

All hands interested in it declare that it is to be one of the most influential demonstrations of the campaign.

Gen. Palmer and Gen. Buckner were entertained at an informal dinner at the Reform Club last night. There were no speeches. Those who attended the dinner were: Charles & Fairchild, William B. Hornblower, William D. Bynum, Roswell P. Flower, E. Ellery Anderson, John De Witt Warner, Edward S. Kauffman, Col. R. G. Mource, James Byrne, Calvin Tompkins, Edward M. ### THE CAPTURE OF DONGOLA.

Gen. Kitchener Summons the Lender of the Dervishes to Surrende CAIRO, Sept. 21,-Gen. Sir H. H. Kitchener. ommanding the Anglo-Egyptian expedition up the Valley of the Nile, reports that the gunboats, which were first to arrive at Dongola, found only a few dervishes there, the main body of them having withdrawn. Gen. Kitchener telegraphs that he has sent a letter to Wad Bishara, the leader of the Dervishes, calling upon him to surrender and offering to pardon himself and his followers if they will lay down their arms.

The casualties on board the gunboats in the fight at El Hadr yesterday were one man killed and twelve wounded.

The despatches announcing the capture of Dongola described the joy of the natives, who hailed the expedition as their deliverers. It was known years ago that the people of Dongola were casting longing eyes toward Egypt. Their province was entirely devastated by the wild Dervishes whom the Khalifa sent there in the early days of his power, and the Donagla became thoroughly tired of Mahdism. The weakness of the Khalifa Abdulish has been chiefly the dissensions between his own tribe, the Baggara, and sions between his own tribe, the Haggara, and the Aulad-belad including the Donagia or people of Dongola. The Donagia were objects of his special aversion, and he would willingly have exterminated them. The Emirs who have him in control in Dongola are men of his own tribe, and have wrested ruinous taxes from the people. Dongola was watched with particular care, it being a frontier province. Many spies have been sent into the district from Omdurman disguised as merchants, and others went on into Egypt to get the Arabic newspapers, which ware always read to the Khalifa by his secretaries. which ware always read to the Annalia of his secretaries.

Between the Emirs and the locusts of 1880 Dongola has had a very hard time. The province shared in the terrible famine that desolated the Egyptian Soudan. It became a common saying that any one who did not die in 1889 would live forever.

Operations. This man shows about 100 miles of the Nile. the scene of the advance and fighting of the Angle Egyptian expedition on last Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. The captured town Dongola is at the south of the map. The region shown here is all desert, except a narrow fringe along the river and the islands, some of them large, which divide the Nile into two or more parrow channels. These islands have a particu larly charming aspect in contrast with the desert sands. They are covered with cultivated fields, palms, and other tropical verdure. The largest sland in the Nubian Nile is Argo, and it is all under cultivation, while many villages are hidden among its palms and sycamores. Thousands of years ago Argo was one of the centres of Egyptian civilization in Nubia and the home of a large colony of Egyptians. Further south, beyond the limits of this map, is the little island of Naft, where the late Mahdi was born.

Near the east bank of the river, just opposite the town Kaibar, in the nerthern part of the map, is the place where the advancing army has been camped for some months. The land force had no easy task last week marching southward on the east bank along the base of those towering, barren hills that wall in this part of the Nile. On Friday the expedition passed the small town of Hannek, and just below it the gunboats got safely through the third cataract, it was a good day's work, and there the army bivoucked for the night, the dervishes, who could be seen on both sides of the river, adding interest to the scene.

Then the dervishes collected in the forts at Hafir, about nine miles further south, for the fight that was coming, and here it was that they were routed and lost their grain-laden vessels, while the beats of the expedition swept past the dervishes and hurried thirty miles further up the river to find Dongola almost without a defender.

At Hafir the land army crossed to the west Egyptian civilization in Nubia and the home of

At Hafir the land army crossed to the west bank of the Nile. They have the dervishes at a terrible disadvantage if they have captured most of their food supplies, for there is nothing but barren desert away from the river.

Thomas Bergen, aged 21 years, fell from the third-story window of she flat house at 22 Degraw street, Brooklyn, early yesterday morning and was instantly killed. He got home about midnight, after drinking several glasses of beer, but, as his mother says, not intoxicated, and went to the front room, where he slept with a younger brother. The latter was asleep for the critical States alone, a large sum of money. To contribute to these expenses according to his means is the duty of every citizen, and expecially of every Democrat. ## A SAWDUST CANDIDATE.

WE'RE BUNCOED WITH THACHER," CRY TAMMANY POPS.

Sold Themselves for Silver and Didn't Get the Price-Anger and Talk of a Bolt-Where Can They Bolt Tof-Popocrate

Vexed-Sound. Money Men Contemptuous

The letter written by John Boyd Thacher, the andidate for Governor of the Buffalo Convention, seems to suit nobody. Elliot Danforth, Chairman of the Popocratic State Committee, was at the Hoffman House last evening. He ad hunted all day for headquarters. The Popocrats at the Hotel Bartholdi had invited the new State Committee to take up headquarters with them. The offer was declined with thanks Mr. Danforth believes that he has secured apartments on the fourth floor of 10 East Twenty-third street, and then again if that falls he may be able to secure headquarters in the old barroom of the Hoffman House on West Twenty fourth street. Mr. Danforth was with Senator Hill at Wolfert's Roost on Sunday night just after Mr. Thacher issued his letter from Albany, Mr. Danforth did not care to say anything about the Thacher letter. He smiled, though, when he said that it andoubtedly had complicated the situation. Railroad Commissioner Samuel A. Beardsley and Charles R. De Freest, the clerk of the old State Committee, were also not talkative, but all hands had a shrug and a grin, and a few had curses for the letter. It was the universal opin-ion of those who seemed to be conversant with the facts that Mr. Thacher showed his letter to Senator Hill before he issued it for publication, and that its purpose was to secure, if possible the endorsement for Thacher of the soundmoney State Democrats at their Convention in the Brooklyn Academy of Music on Thursday. It was not believed for an instant that Mr. Thacher will get what he is after. Edward M. Shepard, one of the most influential members of the Sound-money Democratic State Organization, made the following statements concerning Thacher's letter: "It makes no change in the situation except to add to the reasons why Mr. Thacher should not be accepted by Thurday's Convention. Mr. Thacher says he is against the money plank in the Chicago platform, but he will vote for Bryan and Sewall. Mr. Bryan says that he is for the whole platform. The platform is for repudiation and for several other grave public evils which Mr. Thacher does not oppose in his letter to-day. Mr. Thacher's letter should secure for him the suspicion of the Buffalo party and they should overwhelm him at the polls. In my opinion it has made him simply impossible to the Convention of Thursday, and has increased the reasons why the National Democratic party should oppose the Hill organization, and all local organiza tions acting with it, with a full set of honest tions acting with it, with a full set of honest money candidates for State. Congressional, and Assembly offices, against every dishonest money candidate or only half honest money candidate proposed for those positions by the Buffalo party or its branches in any part of the State. I feel sure the Convention will take this view of the case, because it is plain that it ought to take it."

Senator Thomas F. Grady, who was temporary Chairman of the Buffalo Convention, said:

"I do not like Mr. Thacher's views on the money question. I think that if he had uttered them before the Convention he would not have got the nomination."

got the nomination."

So, it would appear from these conversations that Mr. Thacher has offended both the sound-money men and the advocates of the Chicago platform which was endorsed by the Buffaio Convention. platform which was endorsed by the Buffalo Convention.

Chairman Danforth said that he expected Senator Hill to come to New York to-day. The Popocratio State Committee is to meet at the Hottman Bosse to-night and recommend to the Popocratic National Committee the selection of Frank Campbell of Bath to be National Committeeman in place of William F. Sheehan. It was intimated that the Thacher letter might come up for discussion at the meeting of the State Committee to-night. It was recalled that a number of speakers in the Buffalo Convention who said they believed heart and soul in the Chicago platform, were opposed to the momination of Thacher. They told how he had made a sound-money speech at the Saratoga State Convention on June 24, and how by no utterance on the part of Thacher from the day the Chicago National Convention adjourned had he withdrawn his Saratoga views. Senator Grady, speaking for Tammany Hall in the Convention, assured all these speakers that John Boyd Thacher was an honest man and a Democrat of honest convictions.

Grady, speaking for Tammany Hall in the Convention, assured all these speakers that John Boyd Thacher was an honest man and a Democrat of honest convictions.

"Some men have to teil where they belong," continued Mr. Grady to the Convention, "but we always know where to find John Boyd Thacher."

Mayor Maguire of Syracuse, Judge Downs of Broome county, and a number of others, protested vigorously against Thacher's nomination and spoke for Suizer, declaring that all knew where he stood. On the assurances of Senator Grady, however, and of Cleveland's Internal Revenue Collector, Louis W. Pratt of Albany, who put Thacher in nomination in the Convention, that Thacher was all right and that there would be no trouble with him on the silver question, the Convention went ahead and nominated Thacher. Mr. Thacher's letter demonstrates, according to those familiar with the facts, that the minority is the Convention opposed to him were buncoed in this matter just as they were buncoed in other matters in the Convention. The sound-money Democrats of the State, who are to have their Convention on Thursday night, declare that they will have nothing whatever to do with Thacher. For that matter, Democrats who attended the Ruffalo Convention say that Thacher occupies a most uneviable position and one that is anything but beneficial to his reputation.

The deep disgust which enveloped Tammany's delegation at Buffalo, and which spread itself over the entire organization as the result of the State Convention, was added to by the letter, and found expression in words at a meeting of the Tammany campaigus speakers yesterday afternoon. Something like a proposition to bolt Thacher's nomination was made. So angry were the wigwam leaders that they left Thacher's name out of their call for primary elections which was drafted by the Executive Committee, and a proposition was discussed to ignore or else denounce him in the resolutions to er's name out of their call for primary elections which was drafted by the Executive Committee, and a proposition was discussed to ignore or else denounce him in the resolutions to be adopted at a meeting of the General Committee to-morrow night. On all hands was heard the declaration that Senator Hill had sold John C. Sheehan a gold brick when he got the Tammany leader to agree to support Thacher in the Convention. The Tammany leaders feel specially aggrieved because, having put themselves on resord unequivocally for free sliver; coinage and all the other queer things in the Chicago piatform, they felt that their nominee for Governor should subscribe as freely to the same isms. They had been led to believe that he would and he didn't, and the Sheehan crowd are afraid Tammany may not get the free sliver vote which it will need if there is any and if its returns are not to be ridiculous on election night.

The first open outbreak against Thacher occurred at a meeting of the Tammany volunteer orators, held in the room of the Committee on Organization, yesterday afternoon. Chairman Maurice B. Blumenthai was presiding, and the speakers were discussing the best way of presenting the campaign issues on the stump, when Benjamin Patterson of the Ninth announced that under no circumstances would he say a word favorable to the candidacy of Thacher for Governor. He said that Thacher had been nominated only to bet ay the party that nominated him.

ornor. He said that Thacher had been nominated only to betray the party that nominated him.

Several men tried to shut Patterson up with points of order, but he seemed to have the sympathy of the crowd, and Chairman Blumenthal permitted him to have his say.

After he got through Senator Foley and Civil Justice Roesch tried to smooth matters over by suggesting that the question of bolting or supporting a candidate was not a function of an unrepresentative body of speakers, but should be attended to by the regularly constituted committees of a party. This provoked a resolution for the appointment of a committee of five to wait on the Pepocras State Committee at its meeting to-night and present the objections to the candidacy of Thacher. The motion was voted down.

While this little comedy was in progress down stairs was also discussing Mr. Thacher and his letter. It was decided to leave his name out of the call for primarles and to ask the Committee on Organization at its meeting in the evening to appoint a committee on resolutions to prepare something for the General Committee meeting on Wednesday night which may not be pleasant reading for Albany's Mayor.

In the absence of County Clerk Purroy, George W. Flunklit presided at the meeting of the Committee on Organization in the evening. The call for primarles prepared in the afternoon was read. They will be held in all the Assembly claricts next Monday night. Thacher's name was left out, as had been agreed, and as will be seen from the following except:

The Democratic Republican electors of the cigand country of New York who favor the election of Bryan and Sewall, purr, efficient, and economical administration of public affairs, national. State and municipal, and who are opposed to and consists draft the resolutions to be acted on on Wednesday evening.

On motion of Leader Sheehan, he, William E. Stillings, Amos J. Cummings, Victor J. Dowling, Benjamin Hoffman, Thomas F. Grady, and Charles L. Guy were appointed a committee to draft the resolutions to be acted on on Wedness-

Before adjourning Mr. Sheehan announced the Bryan mass meeting to be held on next Tuesday evening, and said that he expected the boys to turn out better than ever and make "the grandest demonstration in the history of the organization." His mention of Bryan's name was the signal for applause, but the applause was not lively or general.

Coroner Fitzpatrick complained that some little box-like structures which had been erected in the meeting room had crowded the representatives of his district out of their accustomed seats, and he wanted to know the reason why. He learned that he lessee of Tammany Hall had a liquor tax certificate, and, as his best trade was after hours, he had to have a hotel, and these cubby holes were the sleeping apartments for guesta in a Raines law hotel.

It Is Sald Six Inmates of an Insane Asylus Were in the Bryon Purade, LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 21.-When William Jennings Bryan care home from his spectacular tour from Lincoln to Madison Square Garden. New York, to receive the notification of the national silver party, there was a big demonstration. In the evening there was a torchlight procession. People wondered at the number of borsemen in line. It was said at the time that the employees of the penitentiary and State Hospital for the incurable insane, both of which institutions are under the control of the Populist Gov. Holcomb, made up a part of the parade, but it was not known until to day that six of the mounted torch bearers were patients from the insane asylum, all of them incurable.

Employees of the asylum here informed THE SUN reporter that they identified six of the inmates in the evening procession. The lunatics marched with the Yankes Hill Club, and as the cavalcade passed through the streets these men of clouded intellect mocked at the spectators who stood along the line of march. Most people who witnessed their antics thought the men had been fraternizing with John Harleycorn.

To-day for the first time it is explained that these noisy Bryan shouters and torch bearers were insane instead of drunken men. One of the patients who took part in the parade and whooped it up for bryan was James Sturtevant, who is an old-time inmate. He is subject to opileptic fits.

Whether Superintendent Abbott was cognizant of the fact that patients intrusted to his charge were taken from the institution to assist in swelling the ranks of the parade is a matter of conjecture. It was his duty to know, and whether he knew it or not he will likely be held responsible. The attention of Gov. ### WOMAN BICTCLIST INJURED.

Struck Down by a Falling Timber at the Starin Line Dock.

Mrs. A. W. Reynolds, the wife of a Baptist minister of Chester, Pa., met with a serious accidont yesterday morning while riding her bicycle with her husband. The accident happened at the Starin line dock at the foot of Dey street. Mrs. Reynolds is a pretty woman, about thirty years old. The couple came from New Haven by boat Sunday night. They are enthusiastic cyclists, and had been making a bicycle trip through New England. Snortly after the boat reached her dock yesterday morning they started off on their wheels to visit some friends on the steamship St. Louis. They left their baggage on the Starin boat, intending to return for it, and take the train for Chester in the afternoon.

The Starin line has recently built a new covered dock, and workmen began taking down the old one several weeks ago. Only a small part of the framework is left. When Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds reached the dock on their return a projecting timber fell upon Mrs. Reynolds. She was knacked from her wheel and plaked ap unconscious. An ambulanes was called, and she was taken to the Hudson Street Hospital. Three of her ribs were found to be fractured, and her condition is considered serious. Mr. Reynolds, who was riding ahead, escaped unscathed. Policeman Crean arrested Alexander Newkirke, the foreman of the laborers at work on the dock. He was discharged later by Magistrate Wentworth in the Centre Street Court. through New England. Snortly after the boat

He had been acorching with Russell Borchias, a youth of the same age, in preparation for a race. Leaning over the handlebars, with his head down, the boy rushed down the grade at a high rate of speed. He was behind a wagon driven by Ellsworth Ferguson. As he passed the wagon he turned back to look at Borchias. He did not see Nellson T. Parker, who was approaching in a bugg, Mr. Parker saw the boy's danger and shouted a warning, but it was too late. Felter dashed against the point of the shaft ami fell to the ground. Two wheeis passed over his body before Mr. Parker could stop the frightened horse. Dr. E. M. Donahus found that the shaft had entered the right side of the chest, fracturing three ribs and penetrating the pleura. The fractured ribs had accrated the lungs. Peritonitis set in on Saturday. had lived for some time before her death with her heart performing its functions on the right side of her body.

Coroner's Physician O'Hanlon performed an autopsy on the body yesterday afternoon in the operating room of the hospital before the entire medical staff. It was found that the woman had died of exhaustion following the burns of the body and general anamia.

The heart was found at the right side of the hreast bone. This displacement was caused by the middle lobe of the right iung having collapsed. This permitted the sack which holds the heart to slope over to the right side, where it performed it regular functions without interruption. The displacement, Dr. O'Hanlon thinks, must have occurred over a year ago.

Jersey City's 400 were surprised yesterday by the announcement that Mr. J. Newton Goode. brother of Dr. L. G. Goode of 612 Bergen avenue, and Miss Jane Van Wagenen had bee married since May 9. Mr. Goode had been paying attentions to Miss Van Waganen, but the young woman's mother did not approve of his young woman's mother did not approve of his attentions, and the young people were obliged to carry on the courtsinp clandestinely. On May 9 they were married by the Rev. J. C. Emery, pastor of the Waverly Congregational Church. They agreed to keep the marriage a secret and returned to their respective homes. The marriage is made public at this time because the young husband is about to go to l'hiladelphia to resume his studies in a medical college. The bride's father forgave them freely, but her mother was not so easily reconciled. She finally relented, however, and gave them her blessing.

Rochester Banks Boycott Canadian Silver

ROCHESTER, Sept. 21.-Notices were poster in all the banks of the city this morning to the effect that no Canadian silver money would be received on deposit. This action is the result of received on deposit. This action is the result of agitation which has been going on in the local banking circles on this subject for a number of days. It was stated, however, that the boycott has been started by business men, and is the outcome of a sentiment against Canadians on account of their refusal to take United States money. From now on all Canadian silver will be subjected to a discount of 20 per cent. This will practically drive it out of circulation in this city.

were flying from Popocratic headquarters to day, owing to the cold and clammy hand that Candidate Bryan laid upon the enthusiasm of some of the national and local veterans who are fighting under the free-silver banner. In other words, Candidate Bryan, while in this city on Saturday and yesterday, startled some of his most ardent and faithful followers by declaring, in response to some of their wellintended suggestions, that he is destined to occupy the White House after the 4th of March next, and he expects that end to be accomplished without the aid of party organisation or any of the ordinary methods employed in political campaigns. He scorped all suggestions made to him by veterans in past campaigns and laughed at friendly intimations that he might be carrying the sentimental idea too far. Several of the most active workers in the Popogratic vinerard endeavored to give him an secount of their stewardship up to date, and they were mortifled beyond expression when he sent chills creening down their burden bent backs. He disputed the wisdom of their actions, and remarked that he has no faith in what is termed practical politics, which was a severe rebuke to those who fully expected to receive from him a " Well done thou good and faithful servant" salutation.

The managers at the various Bryan headquarters instituted lodges of sorrow to consider the many difficulties and disappointments that have come upon them in the past few days. Two griefs in particular commanded their attention. one being the conduct of Candidate Bryan, and the other the declaration of John Boyd Thacher, the Democratic candidate for Governor of New York, for the gold standard. Instead of inspiring courage among his managers, Mr. Bryan, in his brief visit to Washington, has caused disappointment and deep bitterness of spirit. It would have been hard to find more disgusted lot of politicians than those who gathered in the council chambers of the silver Democracy to-day. The man who wrote that "hell hath no fury like a woman scorned" evidently never run across a politiclan who had his advice, labor, and suggestions ignored by the candidate whom he was trying to serve. It has leaked out that Mr. Bryan, during his brief stay in this city, politely but firmly told the politicians who thronged about him with suggestions and advice that he wanted none of their assistance.

If a candidate ever believed himself to be man of destiny, that candidate is William Jennings Bryan, as several prominent Democratio politicians here can testify. He informed those politicians here can testify. It is and offered their leaders who called upon him and offered their advice that he was not looking to them for help, but that he had implicit faith in his own elections of the people. but that he had implicit faith in his own election, and that he was the chosen of the people. He declared that he was leading the people's cause, and would follow his own convictions and own ideas as to how the contest should be waged. He expressed contempt for ordinary political methods, and declared his belief that his election would be accomplished without the aid of political machinery.

Mr. Bryan was remonstrated with for wasting so much time in the East, and some of his managers are becoming alarmed over the condition of the campaign in States where there is some hope of Damocratic success. Thay want

Mr. Bryan was remonstrated with for wasting so much time in the East, and some of his managers are becoming alarmed over the condition of the campaign in States where there is some hope of Democratio success. They want Bins to devote more time to the middle Western States and to let the East alone. This advice was rejected by the candidate, who told the leaders in effect that he knew what he was about, and that he believed that he could carry New York. He imagines himself a veritable Moses, and believes that he has been chosen to lead the people out of bondage. Profers of assistance of various characters were either quietly ignored or openly rejected.

This attitude of the free-silver candidate was, therefore, the cause of consternation and indignation at headquarters to-day. There was every effort made to conceal their chaprin, but some of them could not refrain from expressing their opinion of a political candidate who would not accept every offer of legitimate help that was made to him. One of the veterans at headquarters to-day said:

"This is the most peculiar situation that I ever knew. I have been in practical politics all my life, and was taught, and still believe, that everything honorable, at least, should be used to advance the narty's interests. No offer of help is too small to be ignored. This blind reliance in faite, Providence, or whatever you might call it, and the candidate's idea that his election is foreordianed, is a new departure in politics as I have known them. We certainly did our best to make Mr. Bryan's appearance heeces in faite, Providence, or whatever you might call it, and the candidate's idea that he would be giad to hear suggestions regarding the campaign.

The managers here have evidently had the same experience with Candidate Bryan that Chairman Jones had at the beginning of the campaign, when Mr. Bryan took the bit in his teeth and selected the headquarters city and inition of the free had an idea they were dealing with an ordinary political candidate, but since they have disa

SHOT DOWN BY STRIKERS

PRICE TWO CENTS.

SEVERAL MEN KILLED BY UNION MINERS AT LEADVILLE.

Some of Their Own Number Shot-They Rurn Down the Coronndo Shaft Bonne and Other Buildings-Militin Haotily

Sent from Denver and Other Towns LEADVILLE, Col., Sept. 21.-Leadville is a battle ground to-day, and the Coronado mine is the scene of a desperate engagement between strikers and the twenty men who were working in and living at the mine. The strikers burned the Coronado shaft house and made an attach on the men, but they were driven from their ground with three of their members mortally wounded and two seriously injured. The most atrocious crime committed during this lawless attack was the shooting and mortawounding of Jerry O'Keefe, who-was doing his duty as a fireman trying to extinguish the blaze that, despite the efforts of the Fire Department consumed four dwelling houses, as well as the Coronado shaft house and outbuildings But the bloody work of the strikers was not confined alone to the Coronado mine. A mob gathered around the Emmett a little while after the attack was made on the Coronado, but the men at the Emmett were ready for the attack, and when the crowd appeared they fired a voller at them and they tound it unsafe to go further in their nefarious work. Not one of their number was killed, but Jerry Mahoney a miner living near the Resurrection, who happened to be coming along the road at the time, walked between the strikers and the men on the inside, and at the first volley was shot dead At the El Paso, also, the men were attacked by strikers, but they left the shaft house and sought cover under bushes close by. Here they were awaiting the attack of the strikers, but the latter did not come near the property, contenting themselves with firing about a hundred shots into the shaft house. Armed men also prowled around the Ram mine at about the same time and fired several into the shaft house, but did not come close enough to throw dynamite bombe and fire the buildings. A great quantity of gland powder was burned outside the fence of the Emmett mine, but no harm was done by it. This powder was brought to blow up the Emmett shaft house, but the resistance made to the attack by the men on the inside foiled the strikers and fearing that they would be caught with the powder in their possession they burned is pronounced dangerous, just below the abdomen. Higgins is not more than twenty years of age.

John Mahoney is not dead, but the doctors say he cannot live. Mahoney is not a striker, although he is a union miner. He was working a lease with two others, and they were with him when he was shot, but none of the men knew they had walked into a death trap until Mahoney was pierced by a bullet and fell from his horse. None of the men killed have families.

The Governor to-day ordered out the militia and they are going to Leadville to suppress the riot. The companies ordered out in Denver were the Denver City Troop. Capt. Parkhill: Chafee Light Artillery, Major Kincaid; Cost., pany B. First Infantry, Capt. Golf; Company R. First Infantry, Capt. Leok; Company R. First Infantry, Capt. Leok; Company R. Scond infantry, Pueble; Company G. Capt. Barnam; Company E. Leadville, Capt. Goddard; Company F. Leadville, Capt. Lasell; Company G. Leadville, Capt. Sewall.

If necessary six more companies of infantry are available.

The Denver troops left there at 8:30 A. M. on a special train. They reached Leadville late this afternoon. Troops from other parts of the State arrived at the same time. Late in the day quiet had been completely restored.
